Yankees land All-Star Chapman from Reds

THE SPORTS XCHANGE

The New York Yankees acquired left-handed All-Star closer Aroldis Chapman from the Cincinnati Reds on Monday.

The Yankees will send right-handers Caleb Cotham and Rookie Davis and infielders Eric Jagielo and Tony Renda to Cincinnati.

The deal comes three weeks after a proposed trade to send Chapman to the Los Angeles Dodgers broke down after reports that police investigated an accusation of domestic violence involving the pitcher in October.

The Yankees had their own All-Star reliever in left-hander Andrew Miller as closer last season. He could be a setup man in a reconfigured bullpen or Miller might be dealt for a starting pitcher.

The Reds traded their other 2015 All-Star, third baseman Todd Frazier, to the Chicago White Sox in a three-team deal that brought back another three-prospect package in return.

According to reports, more than a dozen police officers responded to Chapman's home in Florida on Oct. 30.

The Davie (Florida) Police Department released a report that stated there was insufficient evidence to charge Chapman because of conflicting stories, the absence of physical injuries and no cooperating witnesses.

Former Orono High swimmer coaching at Brown

SPECIAL TO THE BDN

Tree Swim Club in Portland.

In her second season as coach of the Brown University women's swim team, former Orono High and Canoe City Club swimmer Kate Kovenock has guided her team to a 1-1 record in dual-meet action this season with a win against the University of Massachusetts and a loss to Yale along with a fourth-place finish in an eight-team invitational hosted by Princeton University.

Brown returns to racing Jan. 16 against Harvard and University of Pennsylvania. Kovenock was an assistant at the University of Notre Dame and at Kenyon before accepting the position at Brown.

Mainer shines in Florida

Rocco Aceto, a 2007 Maine Swim Hall of Fame inductee, coached his Trinity Prep 200-yard female medley relay team to first place at the 1A Florida State Meet. Aceto's team finished in 1 minute, 42.9 seconds. Since his arrival at Trinity Prep in 2005, 10 swimmers have qualified for the Olympic Trials and 13 swimmers have received interscholastic All-American honors. Aceto, also a member of The Peddie School Hall of Fame, began his swimming experience as a member of the Pine

Tycz sets Maine records

At the Winter East Junior Nationals held at Georgia Tech earlier this month, Bath's Long Reach Swim Club's Caitlin Tycz, 16, competing in the 200-yard butterfly, clocked a 2:01.2, establishing Maine records in both the 15 and 16 and open age groups. Tycz is coached by Maine Swim Hall of Fame member Jay Morissette.

Greely swimmer competing for Arkansas

Sarah Easterling, racing in the Georgia Tech Invitational for the University of Arkansas, swam in the 200-yard individual medley (2:03.2) and the 100-yard backstroke (56.5) The junior Razorback, a former Maine Swimmer of the Year, won the Class B 100-yard backstroke and 200 IM for Greely High in each of her four years competing for the Rangers.

Ellsworth notches first win over Bangor

Ellsworth's recent dual-meet boys win over Bangor High, the first ever for the Eagles, included several highlight swims for EHS, including the 200 medley relay (1:42.6), the 400 free relay (3:23.6) and a 53.9 100 back from Cooper Holmes. Bangor's Colby Prouty finished with an impressive 1:01.3 100 breaststroke.

buzzer for the big upset. Campbell went on to walk on and then earned a scholarship at UMaine where he was a starter his last two years. 6 votes.

Leroy Patterson (6-2 forward): He guided Bangor to the 1962 Eastern Maine championship and state runner-up to Morse of Bath. The late Patterson is one of the best all-around athletes ever to attend Bangor High, where he starred as a running back in football and center fielder in baseball. 5 votes.

Mark Reed (6-3 guard): He helped lead Bangor to its first Eastern Maine championship in 1992 after a 30-year drought and state runner-up to South Portland in a famous five-over-time game. The next year he led the Rams to their first state Class A title since 1959 as they avenged the loss to South Portland. He was a BDN All-Maine first-team selection and went on to play four years at Division I Liberty University. He is now the varsity boys basketball coach at Hermon where his dad and high school coach, Roger Reed, is a volunteer assistant. 4 votes.

MVP: Drinon.

Purest shooter: A three-way tie: Dickie Russell (1954), Scott Davis (1975) and Bruce Withington (1977).

Those casting their votes with me for the above selections were an esteemed group:

- Paul Graffam, a Bangor High basketball historian from the Class of 1947. His son, Ben, was a star point guard for Bangor in the mid-1970s.

- Bob Kelley, Bangor Class of 1954, who coached the Bangor High baseball team to eight state titles, and a veteran basketball official.

- Wayne Lawton, a veteran basketball official and Bangor High basketball player from the Class of 1958.

- Clint Van Aken, another great all-around Bangor player in football, basketball and baseball who went on to coach basketball and baseball at Hampden Academy.

- Bob Beatham, a fellow BDN blogger who graduated from Bangor in 1990 and coached freshman basketball at John Bapst.

- Dick Stacey, a 1955 Bangor High graduate who played baseball and managed the basketball team. He went on to become a successful area businessman and sponsored the locally famous TV show "Stacey's Country Jamboree."

- Keith Mahaney, a former Fort Fairfield High School and UMaine basketball standout who is a longtime Bangor High fan.

her Durham hotel room on Monday night.

"But, for right now, my focus is to get to the point where I can walk around campus comfortably," added Pyne who pointed out that she had the surgery because the "bone structure in both knees is wrong" which requires reconstructive surgery to prevent cartilage damage.

If she returns in two years, she will have at least one year of eligibility remaining and possibly two. From the day a student-athlete first attends a college, they have five years in which to complete four years of eligibility. But some have received a sixth year based on medical circumstances.

Pyne had finally returned to the field this fall after being sidelined for more than two years after undergoing a major surgery on Sept. 23, 2013, to repair severely torn knee cartilage.

That was followed by an 18-month healing period and she was a medical redshirt at Duke in 2014.

She made her debut on Aug. 21, making one save on three shots during a 5-0 victory over Fresno State. She appeared in two other games, both wins.

Sophomore E.J. Proctor played all of the other minutes and led the Blue Devils to a 14-6-5 campaign that ended with a 1-0 loss to Penn State in the NCAA championship game in Cary, North Carolina.

Pyne said she has been overwhelmed by the support she has received.

"All of my teammates have written me a letter. Reading those has been awesome. And my mother has given up her Christmas to be here with me. One thing young athletes learn when they get to college is that their parents are amazing," said Pyne, the daughter of John and Sandra Pyne.

She will retain her scholarship and will stay involved with the team in some way.

She already has begun her rehabilitation.

Despite her surgeries, she remains upbeat and still considers herself "incredibly blessed" and feels it is a "blessing in disguise. You can always find a positive in any situation. I am at an incredible institution and this has been, hands down, the best team culture I have ever been a part of."

from neck surgery in 2011 with the Indianapolis Colts.

"I fully support Peyton," Brady said. "My friendship with him over the years, he's a guy that I can always count on, and has been someone that's always been so supportive of me. We'll have lifelong friendships. Truthfully I don't put much into anything. I have a lot of friends, I have a lot of support, and he is the same. I'm a big fan and supporter of his. That's how I really feel about everything."

PATS NOTES: As disappointing as Sunday was for the Patriots, they'll still be the No. 1 seed in the AFC if they beat the Miami Dolphins — losers of three straight and five of their last six — next week. A win over the Jets would have clinched the No. 1 seed for the Patriots, who can't clinch this week because the winner of Monday night's Cincinnati Bengals-Denver Broncos game will still have a chance at securing the top seed with a win next week and a Patriots loss.

Men's college hockey
MAINE vs. NEW HAMPSHIRE Time, site: Tuesday, 7 p.m., Cross Insurance Arena, Portland; Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., Verizon Wireless Arena, Manchester, N.H. Records: Maine 4-9-4, UNH 6-6-4 Series, last meeting: Maine leads 63-53-6, UNH 5-2 on Dec. 5 Key players: Maine — LW Blaine Byron (5 goals, 5 assists), C Will Merchant (6 & 3), Dan Renouf (3 & 6), C Cam Brown (2 & 7), C Steven Swavely (3 & 3), G Matt Morris (4-2-2, 2.55 goals-against average, .928 save percentage), G Rob McGovern (0-7-2, 2.65, .915); UNH — C Andrew Poturalski (16 & 16), RW Tyler Kelleher (6 & 23), LW Dan Correale (10 & 4), D Matias Cleland (2 & 11), LW Maxim Gaudreault (9 & 2), D John Furgele (1 & 8), G Daniel Tirone (4-6-4, 3.66, .889) Game notes: This is the second year of the back-to-back Portland-Manchester non-conference games between the two archrivals. Maine won the Manchester game 5-2 last season but UNH rebounded to win in Portland 7-4 the next night. The teams have contrasting styles. Maine will try to use its size and strength to create forecheck chances at the expense of the young UNH defense. UNH is quick and will look to generate rush opportunities off transition. UNH plays its home games on an Olympic ice sheet (200 by 100 feet) at the Whittemore Center but the rinks in Portland and Manchester are pro rinks with smaller dimensions (200 by 85) like Maine's Alford Arena. That should give Maine an advantage. UNH went 3-for-7 on the power play in the tie and win vs. Maine before the break so the Black Bears can't afford to take any bad penalties. The nation's top-scoring line of Poturalski between Correale and Kelleher had four goals and eight assists in those two games so Maine has to be aware of that line at all times.

Men's college basketball
MAINE vs. QUINNIPIAC Time, site: Tuesday, 7 p.m., Cross Insurance Center, Bangor Records: Maine 2-9, Quinnipiac 4-6 Series, last meeting: Quinnipiac leads 5-2, Quinnipiac 81-64 on 12/29/14 Key players: Maine — 5-10 G Kevin Little (13.1 points per game, 2.5 assists per game, 1.2 steals per game), 6-7 F Devine Eke (11.2 ppg, 7.6 rebounds per game), 6-8 F Till Gloger (7.2 ppg, 2.9 rpg), 5-11 G Aaron Calixte (7.0 ppg, 2.1 apg), 6-2 G Lavar Harwood (6.9 ppg, 3.0 rpg), 6-5 G Shaun Lawton (6.6 ppg, 2.6 apg, 1.6 spg); Quinnipiac — 6-1 G Giovanni McLean (15.8 ppg, 4.6 rpg, 3.2 apg, .421 3-pt. FG pct.), 6-4 G Daniel Harris (9.3 ppg, 4.1 rpg, 1.2 spg), 6-9 F Donovan Smith (9.2 ppg, 7.1 rpg, 2.0 bpg), 6-4 G James Ford Jr. 6.8 ppg, 5.0 rpg, 2.0 apg), 6-1 G Dimitri Floras (4.9 ppg) Game notes: The Black Bears come off their brief Christmas hiatus hoping to snap a six-game losing streak. UMaine dropped a tough 76-75 decision at Holy Cross on Dec. 21. Quinnipiac of the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference has lost two in a row, most recently an 82-61 defeat at Oregon State on Dec. 21. A major point of emphasis in this one for UMaine will be rebounding as the Bobcats have led the nation in that category each of the last three seasons. Quinnipiac is seventh in rebounds per game (44.1) and third in offensive rebounds per game (17.5). However, Quinnipiac has posted only 65.5 ppg and is among the worst teams in the nation at the foul line (59.1 pct.). The Black Bears' Achilles' heel has primarily been defense, as they allow 84.6 ppg — which ranks 338th of 346 Division I teams — while allowing teams to shoot 47 percent from the field. Freshman forward Issac Vann is expected to miss his eighth straight game because of an ankle injury.
