LOS ANGELES — From Walt Disney's hand-signed Mickey Mouse doll to his animator's desk and chairs, a trove of the late animation entrepreneur's memorabilia will go up for auction next month and offers a glimpse into the origins of the "mouse house." The "Collecting Disney" auction, held by Van Eaton Galleries on June 18 in Los Angeles, will offer more than 700 lots from Disney archives, expected to fetch between $2 million and $3 million.

Among the items on sale, which are coming from the collections of private owners, is one of the first dolls ever made of the anthropomorphic Mickey Mouse, one $50,000 and $70,000, said gallery owner Mike Van Eaton.

"This particular doll was given to woman that he drove He died in 1966 at age 65. an ambulance with in 1917 in World War I. A lifelong friend of his, he gave her one of his most cherished possessions and he signed it on the bottom in French dedicated to her," Van Eaton said.

A set of furniture from Disney's office, designed by Kem Weber, is estimated to fetch between $60,000 and $80,000, while an original score of the first ever song written about Mickey Mouse is expected to fetch between $15,000 and $20,000.

Disney co-founded an anifoot signed by Disney and mation studio in 1923, which given as a gift to a woman, estimated to fetch between ture film production studio we're trying to show in this auction," Van Eaton said.

Other highlights from the with films such as "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," "Bambi" and "Cinderella."

> The Walt Disney Co. is now one of Hollywood's top players, producing live action and animated feature fare.

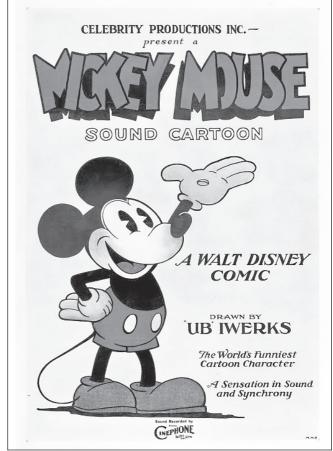

> The auction is centered on the history of the Disney studio, Van Eaton said. The items will be exhibited ahead of the sale from May 25 through June 17 at the Van Eaton Galleries.

"It wasn't the films the made the studio so much, it was the merchandise, the marketing of the characters that really made Disney what it is today and that's what sale include early original drawings of the first two Mickey Mouse cartoons, 1928's "Steamboat Willie" and 1929's "Plane Crazy," expected to fetch around $4,000.

A program for the studio's first animated feature, 1937's "Snow White," signed by Disney and more than 50 staff members, is expected to fetch around $5,000.

A 1928 poster believed to be the earliest known surviving Mickey Mouse cartoon movie poster is seen in a publicity image released to Reuters in 2012 before being sold for more than $100,000.

Officials planning second Blackfly Brewfest in Houlton

BY JEN LYNDS BDN STAFF

attendance was not as high as organizers hoped, Greater Houlton Chamber of Commerce officials already are planning for another Blackfly Brewfest in Houlton.

Jane Torres, executive director of the chamber, said Friday that the overall event, which was held on May 14, was a success, as it brought in a number of new business owners, tourists and contacts for other entrepreneurs in the commuparticipated said that they loved how this town went HOULTON — Although above and beyond to welcome them and really roll out the red carpet for them," said Torres. "We brought them to Houlton and made dinner for them at the Elks Club. Many brewers said they loved the interaction with the consumers at the brewfest. And while the audience numbers didn't quite meet our expectations, one of our big goals in doing this was to make a connection with the brewers.

According to Torres, between 500 and 550 people at-they would be back," she tended the one-day event,

"All of the brewers who which was short of the chamber's goal of 700.

> Torres said that because of the connections made, several local stores already have begun selling beer and wine that was featured at the brewfest.

> "That is awesome," she said. "That is a major goal that we had in mind for this. We wanted people to taste beer and wine that they normally wouldn't be able to, and maybe get to see it in stores later.'

The chamber is already planning for a second year. "All of the vendors said
