Bangor Daughters of Isabella charitable organization looking to add new members

BY JODI HERSEY
SPECIAL TO THE WEEKLY

Not everyone in today's society believes in angels, but there's at least proof that good Samaritans do exist and they're called the Daughters of Isabella.

This female auxiliary to the Knights of Columbus was first founded in 1897 in New Haven, Connecticut with the purpose of uniting Catholic women throughout the U.S. and Canada to do charitable works for those in their community. That's still the mission today for the St. Mary's Daughters of Isabella circle in Bangor that began in 1929.

"I really enjoy giving to the less fortunate because when I grew up I just had my mother and brother and I know how hard it was for my mom," explained Joyce Martin, who moved to Bangor from Connecticut 60 years ago. "The ladies I'm working with now are really wonderful and they give what they can, which I really enjoy because it gives me a high to be able to help other people."

The group of 40, which meets the third Saturday of the month at St. Mary's Catholic Church on Ohio Street has shrunk since their heyday and is now looking for new members to join. However, there are two requirements; you must be at least 16 years old and a Catholic.

"Years ago we used to have one hundred members. But that was when the women didn't work out of the home. It was [a time] for Catholic women to socialize and pray together and do things together for the less fortunate," said Martin. "We have three members still living that are all in their 90s and they have been members of this circle for 65 years. It is amazing."

Over the years, the St. Mary's circle has done food drives for area food cupboards, collected used clothing for the homeless, knitted hats and blankets for newborns in the hospital's neonatal intensive care unit and collected funds for the Priest's Retirement Fund.

"We also give every other month to an organization known as Bags of Love. Those are for children that are taken out of methadone homes in the middle of the night. They can only go with what they have on their backs," explained Martin.

They've seen firsthand how their charitable works have benefitted those in their community. "We have provided hats, gloves, mittens and scarves to the Bangor Police Department in the winter when they are riding and see kids not dressed warm enough," she explained.

And the group has no plans of slowing down anytime soon.

"It's easy [to give] because I know there are many out there that need it and our ladies are very generous. Some are on fixed incomes, but they always manage to do a little something," Martin said.

For more information or to join the Daughters of Isabella, contact Joyce Martin at 922-8120. Clark. "I don't do well on tests, but I'll get all the credit for homework."

Mabel Wadsworth Women's Health Center Announces Annual Award Recipients

BANGOR, Maine - Mabel Wadsworth Women's Health Center recently announced that it will honor two individuals for outstanding leadership and service at its upcoming annual awards dinner and auction on May 19, 2016 at the Hilton Garden Inn.

G. Paul Savidge, M.D., an obstetrician-gynecologist, will receive the distinguished Mabel Sine Wadsworth Lifetime Achievement Award. Named for one of the Center's founders and its namesake, Mabel Sine Wadsworth was a champion for women's access to reproductive health care and started Maine's first family planning clinic to offer birth control. Dr. Savidge has provided compassionate, non-judgmental abortion care for four decades to the women of Maine, both in private practice and with Maine Family Planning and Planned Parenthood of Northern New England, working most recently at Mabel Wadsworth Center. He currently treats patients with opiate addiction at Casco Bay Medical in Portland. Staff and clients greatly value his warmth, sense of humor, and generous spirit in providing a safe and caring atmosphere to all.

Kathy Kilrain del Rio, Director of Program and Development for the Maine Women's Lobby and Maine Women's Policy Center, will receive the Ruth L. Lockhart Feminist Activist Award, named for one of the Center's founders and its first executive director, who retired last year after 23 years of service. Kilrain del Rio works to engage MWL members, the public, the media, and legislators on issues involving violence, discrimination, health care, and economic security. She also worked extensively on Portland's recent ordinance raising the city's minimum wage and the ongoing fight to protect General Assistance for immigrants in Maine. Kathy is passionate about making feminist organizations and advocacy inclusive for all women and raising up the voices of the most vulnerable in our work toward a truly equitable future.

"As reproductive rights are increasingly attacked nationwide, we are thrilled to be shining a light on the bright spots and celebrating people whose work makes a difference in our community," said Andrea Irwin, Executive Director. "We are proud to honor these two talented individuals who have dedicated their careers to supporting women. We have been privileged to work alongside Paul and Kathy and are eager to celebrate their achievements."

Andrea LaFlamme, President of the Board of Directors, is Auction Chair and will host the event along with board member Kate Dawson who will be the auctioneer. Community members interested in attending the event may purchase tickets for $50 by contacting the Center by phone 947-5337. All proceeds benefit the Center.
