

From the Bangor Police: Weekly ‘Got Warrants?’ returns

Hey kids, what time is it? That's right, Got Warrants? is a weekly feature of the Bangor Police Department Facebook page.

If you are looking for loved ones names during today's matinee, you can rest easy. If Cousin Dan or Uncle Biff are involved in our double feature, they will not be named. You should approach them at the family reunion (probably coming up in July at your second cousin's cottage at Beech Hill Pond) and ask them about your suspicions. If the PBR loosens lips, you might get a more personalized story with even more delicious details. You can then share that with your sister Susan who will tell your mother and she will scold Biff and tell him that your Grandmother (God rest her soul) would not have approved.

You see why it's important to have family reunions? I thought so. Let's get to it.

A robbery gets us rolling this week. A man on Grove Street was attacked with a section of 2 by 4 lumber in efforts to separate him from his cash. That's the bad news. The good news? We caught them. Two individuals have been charged with Robbery and Theft and more charges are possible. Nice work by Officer Rusby, Officer Larby and Officer Haskell. The officers had barely sprung into action hero mode (except for Haskell, he is permanently wired for AHM) when they took two suspects into custody for those charges and discovered that the third wheel of the losing tag team had an active arrest warrant. That's a three-fer for the three-fer.

A couple of mobile sommeliers did the "sip 'n slip" at Governor's restaur-rant. Smelled the cork, popped the top and didn't stop (to pay) before they took the liquid grapes on a road trip down Broadway. Before they left, an employee inquired about them trying to take the wine outside to imbibe and one of them asked her if she was going to try to stop them. Talk about the grapes of wrath... that was naughty! The "ladies" were found in Old Town where Old Town P.D. Officer Jordan Norton summoned them both for theft on behalf of Bangor Officer Brian "Kronk" Cronk. They said the neon lights are bright on Broadway but on this day, the dim glow of thievery was overcome by the overwhelming LED's of justice.

A man entered a local wholesale club and filled out his membership paperwork just prior to becoming obscene with a couple of female employees. The man believed that trying to get "piggyback ride" on of the young ladies was a good idea. TC says, "It's not." He also attempted to help one of the employees scratch an itch on her neck. She was not looking for assistance at that time and definitely did not request it from the cad. Since we have his photo and other information, we are in the process of tracking him down to charge him with assault. Yes, it was, "that bad."

Up on Third Street a confrontation between several individuals went all Paul Bunyan when one individual grabbed a hatchet and reconfigured the motor vehicle of one of the parties in the disagreement. Witnesses helped the officers hash out the details which included the following information. The hatchet wielder had been struck in the face by the fist of the recipient of the motor vehicle make-over. One witness said that the holder of the hatchet only struck the motor vehicle after the driver tried to run him down in the driveway. As you can see, we would welcome the wisdom of King Solomon on some days. In the end, charges were filed against the driver of the car and the investigation continues. The hatchet has been put away for safekeeping.

And finally some numbers for you to digest. Operating Under the Influence of Alcohol is a problem we deal with daily. There are details that go with the following digits, but I will only show you the Blood Alcohol Content of a few of those that were charged with OUI in Bangor, Maine in the last week and a half. For the record, .08 is the point in Maine where you are considered operating under the influence.

We have a, .22 .20 .18 .13 .13 .11. 10 .10 and a .09. We also have three more individuals charged that refused to give us a sample for the intoxilyzer. We have one additional individual that was under the influence of something other than alcohol and was charged under the same statute.

The numbers should be sobering, but these people continue to drive. They put other people's lives in danger and I have .0000 sympathy for them. You already know better. Do better.

TC's Maxim #98: "Don't let your LOL cause a DOA." Please avoid texting and driving.

Keep your hands to yourself, leave other people's things alone and try to be kind to one another.

The men and women of the Bangor Police Department will be here.
