

Maine School Garden Network: Promoting and supporting educational gardens for youth

ARTICLE PROVIDED BY MAINE SCHOOL GARDEN NETWORK

Have a school garden in your area that is looking to connect to others and grow?

Looking to get involved with a school garden in your area? Ready to start one at your school?

We can help!

There is so much learning to be had in a simple, yet rich, garden bed, and the time is ripe for growing school gardens in Maine! We would love to see a garden bed for every classroom in every school in the state, with support from administrators and community members, strong links to classroom learning standards, and abundant fresh produce for taste tests and lunch trays.

Our mission is to promote and support educational gardens for youth, and to encourage school programs that teach healthy eating and environmental stewardship.

Visit our booth in the Youth Tent for school garden resources, connections, funding opportunities, curricula, and so much more. To learn more, visit msgn.org or email us at info@msgn.org.
